

CIN-6E-A.2 Continuous Video Fidelity Gate

Historical A.2 evidence | E-A rejection preserved | final lock completed by approved E-C regate

DYNAMIC_VIDEO_GATE: YES

VISUAL_PRODUCTION_LOCK: YES

Decision

The A.2 E-A failure remains historical evidence; the A.3 E-C replacement passed and was operator-approved.

FINAL

Character fidelity

Marian: PASS

Closed white-and-gold slit helm stays closed; face remains concealed; white/pale-blue ceremonial armor-robos, star staff, light magic, and canonical silhouette persist through all reviewed intervals.

Maelor: PASS

Visible face, swept dark hair, purple-and-gold coat, open book, dagger, palette, and proportions remain coherent through the shot.

Alistair: PASS

Closed dark helm, red plume, charcoal armor, red cape, greatsword, palette, and heavy armored silhouette remain stable through the shot.

Cedric

Kestrel

REJECTED

Kestrel's canonical green cloth mask is absent and a human face is visible from the exact E-A source frame through the final frame. This is a disqualifying canonical identity break.

Pilot E - Attempt 1

Representative intervals, exact final decoded frame, cut analysis, cast continuity and HOLD decision.

REJECTED

OPENING

MIDDLE

FINAL

Character fidelity

Cedric: PASS

Deep-purple hood, closed metal face mask, fully concealed face, paired curved blades, agile armored silhouette, and canonical palette persist across all reviewed intervals.

Kestrel: FAIL

Kestrel's nose, mouth and jaw are visibly human in the exact operator-selected E-A source and remain exposed through the generated clip. The canonical full sprite requires a green cloth face mask concealing those features. Her hood, longbow, quiver, palette and silhouette otherwise remain stable.
